12 ANGRY JURORS

By Reginald Rose
Stage Version by Sherman L. Sergel
Black Box Series Production
Directed by Louisa Lemos

SETTING

Act 1: A jury room. Summer, 1967.

10 minute intermission

Act 2: Immediately following Act 1

Director's Note:

Twelve Angry Jurors, originally known as Twelve Angry Men, is a powerful and thought-provoking drama that explores themes of justice, prejudice, and moral responsibility. The play is set in a jury room where twelve jurors must decide the fate of a teenage boy accused of murder. As they deliberate, their own biases, personal stories, and prejudices are revealed. The pressure of deciding a life-or-death outcome tests their integrity and humanity.

Bishop Gorman High School's Gaels Theatre Guild production of this classic from the stage and screen, promises to be an engaging and intense experience for our audience, as the narrative challenges everyone to reflect on the principles of fairness and the value of reasonable doubt in the legal system. Please enjoy the show!
